

WORDSPROUTS

The Park Slope Food Coop's Reading Series Editors' Panel Discussion and Q&A

Featuring Tom Angotti, Alexander Dwinell and Judy Goldberg

Tom Angotti is Professor of Urban Affairs and Planning and Director of the Hunter College Center for Community Planning and Development. He is co-editor of Progressive Planning magazine, participating editor for Latin American Perspectives and Local Environment, and co-edited Service-Learning in Design and Planning: Education at the Boundaries, to be released in January 2012 by New Village Press.

Believing in the role of books and the written word in creating social change, Alexander Dwinell has worked for the past decade as an editor/publisher with South End Press and as a collective member of the Lucy Parsons Center, a radical bookstore and community space. He has also worked as a freelance editor and designer, toured in a punk band and, with thousands of people, prevented the passage of the FTAA (Free Trade Area of the Americas) agreement.

Judy Goldberg is a senior editor at Parents magazine. She assigns and edits features—everything from food stories, special reports and essays, to straight-up service pieces. Previously she was at Scholastic, where she was the editor of a contemporary literature magazine for high-school students. She has two kids, a hilarious husband and a golden retriever.
